Pen and Brush, a 501(c)(3) not-for-profit organization, strongly supports the premise that art and literature are vital aspects of the human experience. We also believe that art and literature created by women deserves to be recognized and valued on its merit – not judged by the gender of the maker. To achieve this, we have specifically designed our new facilities to accommodate the exhibition of all forms of visual arts. We will also electronically publish literary fiction and poetry under our imprint, P&B Books. In this way we will expose the work of women artists and writers to the public and a wide variety of influencers including scholars, collectors, curators, gallerists, agents, and publishers. We welcome all who support this mission! We suggest an annual contribution of $75 to become a supporter for our artists and writers programs.

The Pen and Brush, Inc. is a 501(c)(3) organization. Contributions are tax-deductible (Tax ID 13-5311420) to the fullest extent allowed by law as no goods or services were provided to you. The organization's annual audited financial statement is available from the New York State Department of Law, Office of the Attorney General, Charities Bureau, 120 Broadway, New York, NY 10271, or by written request to The Pen and Brush, Inc.
